U.F.A. Rally Proved a Unique Success

It is a long time since Gleichenites spent as enjoyable a time as they did Thursday evening of last week as the guests of the local members of the United Farmers of Alberta, not overlooking the splendid part the ladies of the U.F.W.A. played in making the entertainment the grand success it proved.

For the first time the Gleichen band made its appearance at a public entertainment, and a very pretty bow the boys made, which was heartily acknowledged upon the rendering of each selection by the enthusiastic audience that crowded the Opera House to its full capacity, there being over 400 present.

Vice-President W. D. Trego presided as chairman and submitted a program that was most pleasing, the various speakers being divided well between musical selections.

The program opened with a band selection, and the first speaker introduced was Mrs. Welen, president Gleichen branch of the U.F.W.A. In a short talk she told of the aims and objects of the association and the good work accomplished locally, concluding with an appeal to the ladies to become members and urged the farmers to see that their wives and daughters were supplied with the membership fee.

Mr. John Gumbach of Queenstown occupied his ten minutes allowance and little more in his usual easy fluent manner, touching upon many subjects Call readers know are dear to his heart.

Rev. Luther Shatto also occupied his full time and proved a very interesting speaker, dwelling mostly upon co-operation.

President H. W. Wood was the principal speaker of the evening, and for over an hour held his audience, touching on many subjects, which he drew from his text: "Thy kingdom come, Thy will be done on earth as it is in heaven."

We regret that space will not permit us to even attempt a report of his interesting address, which was eloquent and showed that the speaker is a very deep student and exceptionally well qualified to hold the important position of leader of the farmers of Alberta. And, no doubt, when next he visits Gleichen there will hardly be building large enough to contain all who will want to hear him.

The other items on the program were well received and each person required to respond to an encore:

Vocal solo, Mrs. J. A. McArthur.
Piano solo, Mrs. Onstad.
Reading, Miss Treg.
Piano solo, Miss Miller.
Vocal solo, Mr. Fred Williams.
Violin solo, Mr. Guay.
Piano solo, Miss Walsh.

But this did not end the program by any means for the ladies had prepared, all admitted, a little the nicest banquet ever placed before Gleichen epicures. Two great long tables stretched the entire length of the annex and were daintily spread with all delicacies and choicest edibles of the season. Although the seating capacity was over one hundred the tables were filled a first, second, third and fourth time and still the supply did not appear exhausted.

While the banquet was served the hall was cleared and dancing indulged in, which was continued until the small hours.

The exhibition of infernal machines and war trophies captured by the Canadians from the Germans during the war is to be held in Calgary, commencing Jan. 18 to 28 inclusive.

Telephones for the North Only

The question of more rural and trunk telephone lines for this constituency has long and often been discussed in these columns and now the war is over there is every reason to expect that the Legislature will be able to fill at least most of its promises. In fact, we now have it on the authority of our member, Mr. Fred Davis, M.L.A., that the Hon. Chas. Stewart has already stated that the Legislature will be asked to appropriate funds for building lines in the northern section of this constituency, which includes Rockyford, Standard and the north general. That is good so far as it goes and the news will be received with delight by our northern friends.

But it does not go far enough, for we also have information to the effect that Irricana, Queenstown, Arrowwood and all the southern districts are not to be provided for at the coming session of the Legislature.

This does not seem right, even though the northern section was the first to ask and had the promise through our former member, Mr. McArthur, who never ceased working to obtain telephone lines for all during his term of office, and we have been told that he is expected to join Mr. Davis, along with a big delegation of U.F.A. members from locals in this constituency, and interview the minister, Hon. Chas. Stewart, in Edmonton at 10 o'clock next Wednesday morning on the subject. The minister has set this hour to receive the deputation and no doubt some real good will result.

NAMAKA NEWS

Mr. Berry conducted Methodist service in the I.O.O.F. hall on Sunday last. This is the first service in Namaka for some time on account of the influenza.

Private John Hubbard returned to his home at Namaka last week. He is looking well and had a good voyage over. He received a hearty welcome from his mother and many friends.

W. W. Winespear received a letter from Lieut. Gus Marcy of the 5th Mounted Rifles, written from Mons, in Belgium. Gus had just heard of the death of his wife and was greatly cut up by this news.

Lon White is the latest victim of influenza scourge. He had been doing all he could for sometime to help those suffering from the malady. He was living in Strathmore at the time working at the Ford garage. He was taken ill on Saturday, pneumonia developed and he was dead in a few days. His death cast quite a gloom over Namaka where he is so well known and universally liked.

The Oddfellows installed the following officers on Tuesday last:
E. C. Watts, N.G.
Harlow Brown, V.G.
W. W. Winespear, Rec.-Sec.
P. Moller, Fin.
J. B. Sim, Treas.

Meetings have not been held during the influenza epidemic, but it is hoped the lodge will have a good season this year.

Craigantler

In reading your last issue with the account of Mr. J. H. Elder's death the people of Craigantler district concur with you in saying that there was not a more highly respected man in this part of the country. Always ready to help his neighbors and even inconveniencing himself to do so. Not only in this district but wherever he was known he was liked and respected by all. Our sympathy goes out to the bereaved family.

The night being of the loveliest kind Mr. and Mrs. J. K. Crapo and Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Grant made the trip to Gleichen to attend the U.F.A. entertainment. They report the program and banquet as something out of the regular routine and feel greatly benefited by the discussion of the various subjects.

L. Selgensen sold a fine load of hogs to the Gleichen Peoples Market last week. It is fine to have some money coming in from different products at this time.

Every one in the Craigantler district is pleased to hear of Mr. H. Shaw's recovery after going through a serious operation in the Calgary hospital.

O. Nelson came in Tuesday to obtain a casket from Geo. W. Evans and stated that Mr. K. J. Vingie had passed away sometime during the previous night after a brief illness. We hope to have further information for our next issue from Queenstown.

QUEENSTOWN

It has been a rather quiet winter out here so far. Owing to the small crop of last year few farmers can afford to go visiting to their old homes this winter. There is no grain hauling nor anything else to do, so most farmers sit around the stove counting their nickles, dimes and quarters, wondering whether it will go far enough to purchase feed for horses next spring when oats are round a dollar a bushel and hay all the way from $18 to $35 per ton.

We escaped the second installment of the "flu" fairly well and no new cases appeared. A few of the younger generation who went up to Calgary, that "flu-fated" town, caught the disease up there, and Albert Dietz died after a week's illness. Albert Dietz, generally known as "Slim" Dietz, was a nephew of Harry and Albert Dietz.

Last month we had two weddings, as follows: Mr. Russell Mills married Miss Jennie Stumpf, and Mr. W. Fitzpatrick married Miss Wallace, the Queenstown school teacher. Rev. Mr. Davidge married both parties at the residence of John Williams, where Mr. Davidge resides at present. All the newly weds have been properly charivariated and the boys are now waiting for them to give the wedding dance.

The farmers' annual meeting was not quite as well attended as in former years owing to a bad day, still there were enough to have a good time. A box social held two weeks later was well attended and the hall committee took in over $200, which will be devoted to help paying the debt.

A large delegation of nine members have been elected to attend the U.F.A. convention in Edmonton, and when all those Queenstown farmers come marching down Jasper avenue waving the Queenstown banner the natives will sit up and take notice.

The district is talking railroad again but there is nothing certain so far.

Lake McGregor is now used as a skating pond by the young people.

Sinn Fein Organization Deny Right of British Parliament

London.—The first publication of what purports to be a Sinn Fein proposal for Ireland was in the Irish Globe. This has a particular interest in view of the Sinn Fein proposal to hold an Irish congress in the near future. The preamble of the constitution runs as follows:

"Whereas the people of Ireland never have relinquished their claim to maintain autonomy and to elect the provisional government of the Irish republic at Easter, 1916, in the name of the Irish people, we, the undersigned, the fight made by previous generations, reaffirmed the inalienable right of the Irish nation to sovereign independence, restored the determination of the Irish people to achieve it; and

Whereas, the proclamation of an Irish republic at Easter, 1916, and the supreme courage and the glorious sacrifice of the men who gave their lives for its maintenance, have been recognized by the British and the United States of America, and the representatives of the Irish people in the House of Commons, declare the following to be the constitution of the Sinn Fein."

The article then sets forth the Sinn Fein plan at securing recognition of Ireland, as an independent republic, and having achieved that, states that the Irish people, by a referendum, may freely choose between two forms of government. It says that the Sinn Fein organization will, in the name of sovereign Irish people, deny the right and power of the British parliament and the British crown or any foreign government to legislate for Ireland.

American Plan Not Formulated

Will Not Be Until President Examines Various Suggestions
The American delegates to the peace conference have taken note of the "American plan" as published in the Daily Mail. It is said they have no knowledge of it, but what they have read of it is in favor of the commission delegate that it did not originate with them. The "American plan" is declared, "is not officially formulated and will not be until the president has examined various suggestions, including several from allied governments." It is added in authoritative sources that the statement that the British government has accepted the plan published by the Daily Mail is incorrect.

Canada Will Be Represented
Paris, La. Liberty says it understands that Great Britain has three special delegates for each of its Dominions, including Canada, Australia, New Zealand and South Africa. The newspaper says why the French government of Marshal Lyautey, in Algeria, has no special representation.

Home Rule for India
London.—A dispatch from Rangoon's Delhi correspondent, announces that at the national Congress there a motion in favor of full provincial autonomy and against special electorates for Europeans was carried by a large majority. The Congress is a formal resolution of loyalty.

Free Empire More Than Match for Military Autocracy

London.—In commenting upon the report of Field Marshal Haig, the Daily Chronicle described the operations dealt with "as the most glorious achievement in the history of the British army."

Field Marshal Haig's strategic statement, the part assigned to the British was most important, and most difficult for the newspaper commentators. The overcoming of the Somme defenses in August was a superb feat, and the breaking of the Hindenburg line and the capture of the Hindenburg line were the most important achievements of the war. When historians write the history of the war, they will be struck by which British divisions selected such crushing defeats on 99 out of 100 occasions. It is interesting to note that, without belittling our men's amazing heroism, they will find a simple explanation in the possession of a tactical superiority due to swift tanks.

These victories should have been won against the Germans' numerical superiority in numbers, provided that the manhood of a free empire is more than a match for the legions of a military autocracy.

"The principal reason for the military change which occurred in the

The Associated Press correspondent sent a report of about 40 Spartans, half armed and half unarmed, all armed and half unarmed, march through the Potters. Three towns of the Bolshevik gathering place.

Praise for General Haig

Does Not Lessen Gratitude to Mar-

London.—Writing in the Daily News on Field Marshal Haig's report, Mr. F. D. Richards, former chief director of military operations at the war office, comments that the British people are grateful to the British commander who has led the British army to victory.

"Our gratitude to Marshal Haig," says Richards, "is not lessened by the fact that he has led the British army to victory. The British commander has led the British army to victory. The British commander has led the British army to victory."

STILL LAYING MINES

Russian Bolsheviks are Piling Approaches to Kronstadt
Stockholm.—The mine danger is a serious one in the Baltic. The British explain that they have taken up their own mines, but that the Bolsheviks have no intention of averting the German mines except so far as is made by the British. The British have laid down the mine danger for the entire war zone.

Swedish minister of the navy, Palmstedt, says that mine sweeping is a costly and laborious. The clearing of the Baltic has already cost Sweden nearly 700,000 (£167,000). The minister says that it is a costly and laborious. The clearing of the Baltic has already cost Sweden nearly 700,000 (£167,000). The minister says that it is a costly and laborious.

While the western Baltic is being mined, new mines are being laid off Estonian and Finnish by the German forces. Russian Bolsheviks are filling the approaches to Kronstadt and other ports on the Finnish gulf with drifting and contact mines, which currents will carry fast, thus ensuring the graven menace to Baltic navigation for a long time to come. The Bolsheviks have laid down the mine danger for the entire war zone.

Field Marshal Haig adds: "At no time has the reputation of the British infantry been higher or more glorious. It is interesting to note that, without belittling our men's amazing heroism, they will find a simple explanation in the possession of a tactical superiority due to swift tanks."

These victories should have been won against the Germans' numerical superiority in numbers, provided that the manhood of a free empire is more than a match for the legions of a military autocracy.

A Farmer's View

Harry E. Brown, formerly of Brown's Transfer, quit that business last year and took to farming south of town. That Harry is taking a very deep interest in his new occupation is shown by the following letter appearing in the Calgary Herald last week over his signature:"In your editorial on wheat prices you say the farmer will have to do the same as the manufacturer, turn his business into other channels, and that they cannot expect any more than enough to pull through on the right side for the 1919 crop."It seems to me that you have forgotten that when the farmer could have got possibly $4 to $5 per bushel for his wheat the government would not allow it, while the manufacturer's prices have been steadily increasing all the time, grabbing the farmers' profit. The farmer has been getting a big price for his wheat, but he is paying it all back to the manufacturer."The manufacturers tell us that the price of machinery will be raised again on account of the increased price of steel, and the price of wheat has to come down. I am sure that this is a very discouraging situation to offer the returned soldiers as an inducement to go on the land."What this country needs, being a farming country, is a little protection for the farmers and not so much protection for the manufacturers."While there are hundreds of thousands of farmers in the Dominion of Canada, these farmers have to buy their implements from about six firms.
Now, it does not stand to reason that they (firms) are going to be short of business even in the poorest of times.
There is no competition whatever. It is the masses depending on the farms for a livelihood that should be protected. Not the few exceedingly rich; they can rustle for themselves."If these firms here on the ground floor, with their reputation established, cannot compete with outside firms, without protection, we don't want inferior goods at excessive prices. Thisis the reason the government has such a hard time to get the soldiers to take to farming. They aim to get them out on the farm for the manufacturer to have that many more to fleece. You cannot blame the soldiers. If the government would make them a proposition of machinery at such a price and wheat at such a price, they could figure on the job
When a manufacturer starts to figure the cost of a binder he knows exactly how much material it will take how many he can turn out per day the cost of labor, etc. When a farmer starts to work his land he does not know what the yield per acre will be whether he will be helied out, froze out or dried out. It is the most uncertain occupation there is. Not there is the man that wants a little protection."While the war was on laborer did not dare strike where they were working for large corporations. The farmer had not even this protection he had to have the men immediately
He could not shut up his business because the men refused to work for a certain wage. He simply had to have the labor or lose his whole year's work. Now it seems to me that the sooner the government gets busy and gives the masses, that need protection, a little lift, things will run a little more harmoniously, and there will be a lot less strife."It is certainly up to the peace commission to do something quick before seeding and let the farmer know what is needed. It will place all business on a safer footing and put the people at peace."Hoping to hear more on this subject, I am, yours truly,
"H. E. BROWN."

Gleichen."

GREAT SCOPE FOR DAIRY INDUSTRY"If we can obtain half of the settlers our province is capable of supporting, the development that is bound to result by opening up our resources is almost beyond comprehension," said a speaker before the Winnipeg Board of Trade recently.
"In northern and central Manitoba there are large stretches of land where the wild pea vine and other nutritious grasses grow in abundant; land that will support thousands of cattle; there are rich deposits of minerals, marble, glass, sand, clay, timber lands; fish swarm in our lakes and rivers, and an available water power of 3,842,020 h.p., of which only 76,200 h.p. is developed. All that we need to become one of the wealthiest provinces in the Dominion is the development of these resources, and this can only be accomplished by getting the right kind of settlers in sufficient numbers."There is a wonderful opportunity here, as in Alberta and Saskatchewan for the development of a great dairy industry. The remarkable growth of this industry throughout Western Canada is small compared with the possibilities, and a considerable increase in the production of dairy products may be looked for during the next few years.Many Gleichenites visited Calgary the end of last week.Monday—Ad. changes required

The Prospects of the Year 1919

The year 1918 was a remarkable one for the Prairie Provinces of Canada. Owing to the summer being one of the driest on record, the grain crop in many parts did not come up to expectations. As a province, Alberta suffered worst in this regard, the crop being only about a third of that of each of the three previous years, although as much grain was grown as in pre-war days. In Saskatchewan, after many hopes and fears, eventually nearly 100,000,000 bushels of wheat and corresponding quantities of other crops were harvested. This is somewhat smaller than the previous year's crop. Manitoba, on the other hand, harvested a larger crop than in either of the two previous years.

It would be difficult to imagine a more trying year in Western Canada, yet on the whole it has demonstrated that farming pays here even when conditions are most adverse. If the grain crop has been smaller than farmers expected, there is the bright side in the growth of the dairying and the wool and the livestock industries. In all three provinces these industries have made forward strides—and the pace shows no sign of slackening. Indeed, there are unmistakable signs that they will receive a still greater impetus during the next few years. Their growth this year has largely offset the smaller crop, and the wealth accruing to farmers of the Prairie Provinces of Canada will not be much, if any, less than it was in 1917, the most successful year from a financial point of view in the history of the country.

Irrigation has clearly proved its value in 1918. Many farmers, especially in the older settled districts, had not been in the habit of properly using the water flowing past their farms and this year were rather late in applying it. But where the water was intelligently applied marvellous crops were obtained.

What are the prospects for 1919? The answer is decidedly hopeful. One of the greatest handicaps the Western Canadian farmer has had to contend with for some years—the insufficiency of labor—will be removed with the return of the soldiers during the summer. The land that has been prepared for next season's crop is said to be in excellent shape, and there is a large proportion of summerfallow among it. A considerable amount of fall irrigation has been done in the irrigated districts, and as this has generally been found to be beneficial to the following year's crop many rich harvests may be expected here next year. Many farmers have just made a start with livestock, or have increased their herds and flocks, and from these the most beneficial results will be seen in 1919. Preparations are also being made to receive a greater number of new settlers than have entered Western Canada for many years. The outlook is bright and prosperous for the agricultural future of Western Canada.

There is only one way to advertise and that is hammer your name, location and your business so persistently, so thoroughly into people's heads that if they walk in their sleep they will constantly turn their steps towards your store. The newspaper is your friend in spite of criticism. It helps build up the community that supports you. When the day comes that the newspapers are dead the people are on the edge of the grave with nobody to write the epitaph.

Britain will spend two hundred millions in Canada during 1919. This has been made possible by a Canadian loan to the imperial authorities for that amount from the recent Victory Loan Funds. The fund will not only pay interest to its subscribers but will provide many of them with profitable employment as well. These domestic loans are a good thing in every way and should be encouraged.

TRY IT TO-NIGHT FOR YOUR NERVOUSNESS

Worn out, tired in the morning, you lack the energy and ambition to work as of old. This means nerve decay—nerves that are starved for the want of good, rich blood.

It's blood nourishment that vitalizes the nerves. Your blood is thin, weak, watery. It's filled with poisons that hang on because your kidneys don't filter properly.

See here, fix up your kidneys, put new life in your liver, and you'll feel like new in a short time.

To do this, you must use Dr. Hamilton's Pills, they make life look bright and pleasant because they restore harmony and vigor to the organs that need repair.

For an instant Morgan seemed at a loss. His brows drew together in a lowering frown. Then the scowl vanished, and he held out a cordial hand.

"Glad to make your acquaintance, Mr. Clegg," he said. "But what a queer coincidence. Tom Burbury is at Winchester. You must know the lad that we're all in such a dangle about—the rector's son, who is giving us fits over what I maintain is a schoolboy's prank."

"Oh, yes, I know young Burbury," replied Kenyon. "He is a keen enough youngster, but a bit of a handful."

"Just so," assented Morgan. "I'm sure nothing has happened to him. He is just having a lark, the young rascal. He'll turn up safe and sound in a day or two, with his tongue in his cheek and a yarn about having been kidnapped by pirates or something. Been reading penny dreadful trash, I reckon. Now you two are coming up to lunch at the court. I won't be denied. Your son will have informed you, Mr. Clegg, that I am one of his rector's staunchest supporters."

The invitation, as prearranged between the two conspirators, was accepted, and host and guests walked up to the court. The house party was displayed in various attitudes in front of the mansion. Prof. or Zimbalist was reclining in a cane chair, cuddling the heel tips of a brandy and soda. Louis Gaspard was moodily sipping absinthe. Laura Gaspard, a cigarette between her red lips, was throwing pebbles at a peacock. Not a very edifying spectacle to present to the curate, Morgan reflected, and he would have hesitated to do so, had he not had a motive in cultivating further acquaintance with Tom Burbury's science master.

As it was, he made the best of it, and luckily his visitors from London were shrewd enough to grasp his predicament and assume their best behavior. Laura's cigarette vanished over the terrace balustrade; Gaspard's liqueur glass disappeared under his chair; and as the newcomers came up Zimbalist drained the dregs of his long tumbler with an audible aside about "delicious lemonade."

Introductions were effected with all due formality, and without a sign patent to Kenyon that he had been recognized by any of the crooks by whom he was surrounded. Laura Gaspard was his chief anxiety, but she treated him just as a smart woman from town would be expected to treat an elderly man whom, from a sense of duty, her host had invited to lunch. Which is to say that she displayed a polite indifference far more reassuring to Kenyon than either studied avoidance or gushing familiarity would have been.

And all went well at lunch, leaving aside a certain constraint not unnatural at a table where one of the guests was the parson whose church the majority of the others had failed to attend. Jasper Morgan set the tone with an adroitness that won Kenyon's admiration, suspecting the man as he did in complicity in the murder of his wife. He referred to his recent bereavement in brief but feeling terms, and only as an excuse for not being able to ask "Mr. Clegg, Senior" to stay at the court during his sojourn at Comlyn.

"These old friends are only spending the week-end with me very quietly, except Professor Zimbalist," he explained. "It would have given me much pleasure to put you up here if it wasn't that I'm keeping quiet just now. Your soon will have told you of my tragedy."

It was toward the end of luncheon that something happened which gave Kenyon a qualm of doubt. Jevons, the soft-footed and soft-spoken butler, who had waited unexceptionally till now, dropped a plate behind his master's chair. As he rose from picking up the fragments Kenyon thought he saw the man's lips move while they were close to his master's ear. It might have been an apology for his clumsiness, but Kenyon had defended Jevons at the Old Bailey for a very horrible crime, and got him off, as his former client had boasted last night in the pantry. The dropped plate might have been a pretext for informing Morgan of recognition.

And the curate's bogus father knew that, with the exception of his bogus son, there was not a man round that sumptuously laden table who would not cheerfully kill him if they guessed why he was there.

Morgan stormed at the butler for his carelessness, and then quite abruptly reverted to the subject of Tom Burbury.

"What is the young rascal's particular line in science, Mr. Clegg?" he asked, after repeating his belief that nothing serious had befallen the boy.

"Chiefly the study of minerals," replied Kenyon. "And that fact prevents me sharing your optimism about him. He may have been exploring some obsolete mine and fallen down the shaft."

The theory seemed to impress Morgan. He shot a glance at Zimbalist and buried his head in his hands for a few moments.

"That's a notion," he said at length. "But if there is anything in it the boy must have wandered far afield. There are no open shafts hereabouts. Wheat David, ten miles away, is the nearest."

Laurence Clegg rose to go, explaining that he had to be at the Sunday school, and Kenyon also made a move. Morgan accompanied them to the door, and the curate having departed down the drive, volunteered to walk part of the way with "Mr. Clegg, Senior," whose route to Merlyn Farm lay in the opposite direction—across the moor.

"Glad of your company," said Kenyon, whose every nerve was tingling with a sense of impending danger. The offer had not been made for nothing, he was sure. He had an instinctive feeling that his host mistrusted him, and there were infinite possibilities in a solitary promenade through lonely places with a man suspected of murder. However, the friendly pressure of a handy pocket revolver gave him confidence, and he decided not to shrink the risk.

The pair had not gone twenty paces when his confidence was strengthened from another and entirely unexpected quarter. Laura Gaspard came running after them, making pretence of playfully petulant protest.

"Like your cheek to leave me behind, Mr. Morgan," she panted as she caught him up. "You know I dote on country walks. I am coming too. Father has gone to sleep and the professor is painting his nose."

Kenyon thought he discerned a note of hysteria in this frank vulgarity, and he watched for some signal that they had had no opportunity for collusion. Any design which Morgan might have formed against him must have been intended to be practised single-handed and without a witness.

Laura Gaspard's presence would be a protection, and he wondered if she had meant it so to be. Anyhow there was no need now to keep an eye on every movement of his antagonist in what he knew for certain now was developing into a duel of wits.

So, chattering lightly, they came to the derelict tin mine, marked by its pile of tailings and the group of tumble down huts. The path took them close to the one where Kenyon had played his part of tramp and convict, and this they passed without anyone showing interest. But a little further on Morgan came to a halt, at a larger but far more decayed building.

"Here's a funny old pitch," he interrupted himself to say. "It is the ruined engine house. Take a peek inside, Mr. Clegg. There are still some relics of obsolete machinery to be seen."

Kenyon passed through the stone pillars of the crumbling entrance and strove to penetrate the gloom within. Laura Gaspard was immediately behind him. Suddenly he felt a violent jerk propelling him forward, and almost simultaneously, a grasp on his arm which pulled him back from the yawning gulf into which he would have fallen.

"So sorry, I stumbled on one of these infernal stones," Morgan's voice came from the rear. "Hope I didn't hurt you, Miss Gaspard."

But it was Kenyon who answered. "There doesn't seem to be much machinery here. Only a black hole, into which but for Miss Gaspard's timely presence of mind, I should have been pushed."

Morgan uttered an inarticulate sound which might have denoted one of several emotions—angry disappointment, astonishment, or self-blame. It was the latter sentiment which, after a silence broken by Laura's heavy breathing, he put into words.

"Good God!" he exclaimed. "I made a mistake in the hut. I thought it was the old engine house, but I have never been in this one before. Why, it appears to be the adit of an ancient shaft. My cursed stupidity might have caused a nasty accident."

CHAPTER XX

Pitch-Blende

In a large attic in one of the gables at the back of Merlyn Farm, the window of which was screened from outside observation by the roof of a barn, Kenyon was exercising all his powers of persuasion on the heavy-faced boy who sat opposite to him at a plain table. It was ten o'clock at night on the Sunday which had already proved so eventful. On the table was an oil lamp, also a chunk of veined stone which Tom Burbury was fingering lovingly. Kenyon had discarded the disguise which he had worn earlier in the day.

"So you see, Tom," he concluded his narrative of what had happened on the moor, "there's no doubt that Morgan is capable of murder. He tried to murder me by pushing me down the mine shaft. And we know from what you overheard at the wrecked brig that he means to put Hever out of the way when he has served his turn. You consented to co-operate with me, and yet you won't tell me what that beastly stuff is that you're so fond of."

"If I told you you'd get all the credit," said the boy sullenly. "I want to save Sir Anthony off my own bat."

"I want to save him too, but not from the hangman," rejoined Kenyon quickly. "I wish I could persuade you that he is in no danger of that, if Morgan has his way. What we have to do first of all, Tom, is to save Mavis Comlyn from being forced into marriage with this man who you were smart enough to see would stick at nothing. I have a jolly good mind to go to your mother and ask her help instead of yours."

The weird boy laughed sardonically. "You wouldn't get round the Mater. She would move heaven and earth to hang Tony West, and she'll be as sweet as sugar to Miss Comlyn as soon as she's a rich man's wife. The whole thing is enough to make you sick."

"But can't you see," pleaded Kenyon as earnestly as if he was addressing a jury, "that if we knock the bottom out of Morgan's motive for making away with his wife so as to be free to get hold of the Comlyn property by means of this unholy marriage we can stop it. Laurence Clegg tells me you are devoted to Miss Comlyn. Surely you will agree that to protect her is our first duty. We can clear West and put Morgan in the dock afterwards."

"How are you going to get over his alibi?"

"I don't know, but I shall," Kenyon's temper was at the end of its tether. The boy was exasperating.

"And you'll let it be known that you owe your clue to me," came the first signs of weakening. "It isn't vanity, Mr. Kenyon, I want to score off the Mater for having such a down on Sir Anthony and for going behind my discovery against him."

The barrister regarded the glum-faced boy with awe-struck wonder. Here was human nature in its crudest aspect of violent contrast. A dog-like fidelity to the object of his hero worship, and a desire to "score off" his own mother because she was on the other side, expressed in the same breath. There must be a kink in the Burbury character somewhere, and Kenyon speculated what manner of man was the bedridden rector whom no one outside his own family ever saw.

Investment in Son

You have $1,000 in a Percheron colt and you are perfecting plans to get principal and interest out of him. You have $500 in a Hereford calf and you aim to make him a paying property. You have $100 in a young Berkshire and you give him generous care and proper feeds to secure returns from his breeding. But did you ever stop to cast up the investment you have made in that growing son of yours.

He has two hands that in the tables of accident insurance are each worth $500. He has two arms and two legs that on the same basis of computation are worth $1,000 each. He has two eyes and two ears that, according to the ratings of the courts are worth a couple of thousand each. He has tractable nerves, and perfect digestion and ability to sleep that put up among millionaires, would easily bring a hundred thousand. He has bounding spirits and fresh ambitions and eager hopes and rosy beliefs in life and men that are beyond all price. He possesses hereditary traits—the sturdy perseverance of your mother that are ineradicable and immensely valuable.

What are you doing to get the best out of him? Chores, yes. The strap, maybe. A patch of garden. Anything more? What are you doing to brighten his inner world? What pictures are you hanging daily in the gallery of his memory? How are you fitting him to realize his ambitions, to make of his hopes something more than rainbow dreams and of his hereditary impulses something better than vague tastes and tendencies. He is a treasury of physical, mental and emotional values; how are you preparing him to put these into remunerative circulation? You are laying up money for him, but the best legacy parents can leave their children is the remembrance of an honest father and a devoutly hopeful mother.

Whatever may be the state of your bank account, you are rich if you possess a boy. And you are equally rich if your boy chances to be a girl.

Gaining Fresh Victories

Bolsheviki Forces are Well Equipped for Warfare

London. — With the Bolsheviki armies winning additional victories practically everywhere, reports were received from several sources indicating a let down of allied and German resistance to them.

According to the Express, the British light cruiser squadron will be withdrawn from the Estonian coast within a few days because of danger from the ice. The squadron, however, will patrol the Baltic as far as Danzig.

German troops have retreated to a new position several kilometers from Riga, abandoning a thousand German soldiers in that city, according to a Berlin despatch. The despatch said that the German cabinet had conferred with the German central council of Soviets regarding the situation on the Russian frontier.

Well equipped Bolsheviki forces have captured Walk and Wenden, according to a Riga despatch to the Berlin Vossische Zeitung. This despatch said the German troops in the Baltic provinces are practically out of provisions, and are refusing to fight, declaring they wish to return home immediately. Soldiers defending the railway are said to be deserting, rendering orderly retreatment of the German forces impossible.

Paderewski Opposed

Warsaw. — Ignace Jan Paderewski has found General Joseph Pilsudski, the Polish military dictator, will not give up his authority in Poland at the present time. The two Polish leaders have had an interview, which, it is indicated, was unsatisfactory.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

LESSON FOR JANUARY 19—THE PASSOVER

1. The Passover Instituted (12:1-23).

1. The time set (v. 2). With the institution of the Passover came a change in the order of time. The common year was rolling on as usual, but with reference to his chosen people the order is interrupted and everything is made to date from this. This signifies that redemption is the first step in real life. "Old things have passed away, all things have become new." Before this the man was dead in trespass and sin; now he has arisen to walk in newness of life. All before redemption counts for naught. The world thinks that real life ends when one accepts Christ, but this is a grave mistake. It is the beginning of real life.

2. The lamb set apart (v. 3). This previous setting apart of the lamb typifies the reformation of Christ to be our Saviour. Redemption was not an afterthought of God (1 Peter 1:18-20). This lamb must be a male without blemish, indicating that it must be both representative and perfect.

3. The lamb was killed by the whole congregation (v. 6). This shows that it was not for the individual only, but for the entire assembly. The setting apart of the lamb was not sufficient, it must be killed, for "without the shedding of blood there is no remission of sins." The lamb might have been tied to the door of the Israelites that night, but there would have been no salvation, notwithstanding its perfection. Had Christ's spotless life continued till the present time and his matchless teaching gone on without interruption, not a single soul would have been saved, for "Except a corn of wheat fall into the ground and die it abideth alone." (John 12:24).

4. The blood of the slain lamb was to be placed upon the sideposts and lintels of the door (v. 7). It was not sprinkled upon the threshold, as it must not be trampled under foot (Hebrews 10:29). When the destroyer passed through the land he passed over the houses where the door posts were sprinkled with blood. This blood was the evidence that a substitute had been offered for them. They could rest absolutely secure, because the matter had been settled according to divine arrangement. The blood was the ground of peace. The assurance is not when you feel your sins are pardoned, but "when I see the blood I will pass over you."

5. Israel feeding upon the lamb (v. 8-10). This denotes fellowship. Judgment must precede feasting. The eating of unleavened bread signifies that no sin is connected or allowed in fellowship with Christ. All who have entered into the power of the cross will put away sin.

6. They ate the passover ready for action (v. 11). The loins being girt about, betokens separation from sin and preparation and readiness for service. The feet being shod indicates their willingness to leave the land. The staff in the hand indicates their nature as pilgrims leaning upon a support outside of themselves. They were to leave behind them the place of death and darkness and march toward the promised land.

7. The uncircumcised denied participation in the feast (v. 43-49). Circumcision was typical of regeneration. The significance of the requirement is that only those who have become new creatures by the power of the cross have a right to sit at the Passover feast.

2. The Significance of the Passover (12:24-28).

It was a memorial institution, calling to mind the deliverance of the Israelites from Egyptian bondage—God's interposition on their behalf, freeing them from their oppression. This was to be taught to their children when they came into the land, from generation to generation.

3. The Awful Judgment (12:29, 30). That night the destroyer passed through Egypt and slew the first born in every home where the blood was not found. An awful cry went up from Egypt that night.

4. The Great Deliverance (12:31-36). So mighty was this stroke that Pharaoh called for Moses in the night and requested him to be gone with his flocks and herds.

Wants Millions for Europe

Washington. — President Wilson has asked congress, through the state department, to appropriate $100,000,000 for relief of famine sufferers in Europe. It is understood the money is wanted chiefly to send food to sections of western Russia, Poland and Austria-Hungary. Food administration officials assume that the money sought by the president is intended to be the American government's contribution toward financing the great relief work in devastated countries which Herbert Hoover is organizing.

It would be a good thing if a St. Helena could be found for him, but there are any St. Helenas in these days of submarines and airplanes!"

War Has Affected Japanese Business

Thousands in Tokio are Out of Employment

Tokio. — The Japanese business world closed the year 1918 in a weak and uncertain mood but without recording any serious mishaps. In some cases the partial or complete closing of factories has thrown out of employment in Tokio 10,000 persons. The foreign commerce of the year was poor though the imports showed a slight increase. There was a decrease in cargo capacity and freight rates were unsettled. The stock market held firm. The rice market had a boom, though the raw silk market was poor. The demand for general commodities was weaker, while the prices of foodstuffs were higher.

Bankers were cautious about advancing money and this caused a tightness of credit. Money was in demand on account of the big transactions following the period of inflation. The banks having increased resources helped to make business settlements smoother.

More History is made than ever is written.

Heart Palpitated
Could Count Every Beat

When the heart begins to palpitate, it will beat fast for several seconds, then slow, then start to flutter, and a feeling of utter depression will come over your whole system, accompanied by weak, fainting and dizzy spells. When the heart gets into this condition, you become weak, worn and miserable, and are unable to attend to either social, business or household duties.

Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills will give prompt and permanent relief to all sufferers from any heart weakness or nerve derangements.

Mrs. Walter Grieves, Apsley, Ont., writes: "I had been run down, and doctors told me I was anemic, but did not help me with their medicines. I could not sleep nights, my heart palpitated so, and I could count every beat."

I used to have such dizzy spells I would have to go to bed. I was not able to do any work for eight months. A cousin of mine had taken Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills and told me what they had done for her. I took eight boxes of them, and now I am able to help every day with the work. I am so thankful to tell others what they have done for me, so that they may try this great and wonderful remedy. I hope this may prove good to some one who is suffering the way I did."

YOUR HOME PAPER

In some quarters, and among a certain class of Canadians given to very superficial thinking, it has become a popular pastime to decry the newspaper press of this Dominion and to characterize it as dishonest, venal and corrupt and its independence a joke. It is stated with tiresome reiteration by these critics that the newspapers of Canada are either under the thumb of self-seeking politicians, or are the property of special interests and combine whose purposes they exist to serve, or that they are at the mercy of their chief advertisers; consequently, that the newspapers of Canada are biased against the public good, that free expression of opinion is stifled, that even the news columns are "doctored," items of news being published or suppressed according as the personal or political interests of the real masters of these papers dictate. As for the editorial views advanced by the newspapers of this Dominion, these critics declare they are regarded with suspicion by the people and carry little weight.

One of the most recent tirades of this character is to be found in the editorial columns of an advertising supplement, which is, contrary to the postal laws of Canada, being inserted in a number of Western weekly papers. This advertising supplement is not printed by these weekly papers. It is issued by an advertising agency in Regina, and the weekly papers using it are merely paid a nominal sum to incorporate it with their regular editions and thus give circulation to the advertisements of Regina. Business concerns and draw trade to that city and away from the smaller towns and villages of the West.

Possibly the editorial attack of this advertising supplement on the press of Canada should be given just the valuation which it itself places on editorial expressions. However, while the daily papers of the Dominion may ignore it, we feel inclined to offer a few observations so far as the weekly press of Western Canada is concerned.

It is no doubt true that in Canada, as in all countries, there are certain newspapers which are controlled, and their policies dictated, by political party men. Others are owned by corporations having selfish interests to serve. But because there are a few outstanding examples of this kind, provides no ground for the general condemnation of the larger newspapers of this country, and people who have been fed with this kind of wholesale criticism of the press would probably be surprised and greatly delighted to learn how small, after all, is the number of papers under such control and open to such dictation.

So far, however, as the weekly newspapers of Western Canada are concerned, the charge of a lack of independence cannot be successfully maintained against them. Rather, it can be said without fear of successful contradiction that of all the institutions in this Western country there is not one more free from outside interference, dictation or control, either by party politicians, financial interests, railways or other corporations, than the weekly newspapers of the Prairie Provinces of Canada.

Western weekly papers are, in the vast majority of cases, the personal property of the men who are actually directing and managing them, and in those few cases where they are owned by joint stock companies the shareholders are men of substance and standing in the community in which these papers are published and among whose people they are circulated and by whom they are read.

These weekly papers are the real and true mirrors of the life of their respective communities; they exist to serve the people of the community; they are, almost without exception, found ever ready to advance the interests of the community and promote the true welfare of its people. They have views on public questions, of course, and they would not be worth much if they did not, but they are subject to no party dictation or control. Their views are the honest views of the men who own and personally control them and whose interests are wrapped up with the interests of the community they seek to serve.

For real independence the weekly newspapers of Western Canada stand without a peer. Many of them make great sacrifices in the interests of their home districts by refusing advertising designed to draw business away to other and larger centres. They are ever ready to give a helping hand to every worthy cause calculated to advance the interests of their community. For these, if for no other reasons, the weekly papers are deserving of the unstinted and united support of the people of their respective communities. In subscribing for, and in every possible way supporting the "home weekly," people are but assisting to build up and maintain an agency which can and does render incalculable public service.

To the reader of this paper, therefore, we would say: Do not run down your own paper; do not unfairly contrast it with larger papers elsewhere; rather support and encourage it and thus enable it to improve and develop until others will point to it as a model, and its power to benefit the community—your own community—be largely increased.

Huge Purchases

Made in Canada

Nearly Quarter of Million Tons of Food Secured for British

Ottawa. — Nearly a quarter of a million tons of meat, dairy products and eggs have been purchased by the British minister of food in Canada up to the end of 1918. The exact total is 486,150,000 pounds. The provisions section purchased directly 153,453 tons, made up of 86,438 tons bacon and hams; 420 tons lard; 222 tons butter; 1,674 tons milk; 4,535 tons preserved meats; 60,140 tons frozen meat. In addition to this the dairy products commissioner on behalf of the British ministry purchased 80,622 tons of food, made up of 65,955 tons cheese; 3,988 tons butter; 10,334 tons milk; 345 tons eggs; a combined total of 234,050 tons.

Food Will Maintain Order

Amsterdam. — The maintenance of order in Austria is closely connected with the maintenance of the supply of coal and food, the members of the inter-allied food commission, now visiting Vienna, were told by Secretary Bauer, of the foreign ministry, on their visit to the department, says a Vienna message. The secretary, in describing the causes and effects of the scarcity of provisions, and fuel, emphasized this point.

French Entered Montenegro

Paris. — French troops entered Cetinje, the capital of Montenegro on December 2, it is announced. They were greeted enthusiastically by the people and found that good order prevailed in the country. Five members of the national assembly have been charged with the management of the country's affairs until the union of Montenegro and Serbia under the Kara-Georgievitch dynasty has been completed.

Germany Wants Poland

Are Spreading Stories of Advance by Polish Army

Washington. — Reports from Berlin that a Polish army was marching on the German capital is denied by the Polish bureau. The report was instigated for German propaganda purposes. A statement by the bureau said:

"Poland is the prize Germany seeks." The statement said that in German Poland, which is between 70 and 90 per cent. Polish, the people of their own accord are "setting their house in order to resist Russian and German Bolshevism," and to that end have created a local militia. To hinder the operations of this military force, the Germans, it was said, are spreading stories of an advance by a Polish army.

The bureau's statement also said French and British newspaper correspondents in Berlin have been recalled at the request of their governments which were said to have become convinced that the correspondents were being used for propaganda purposes.

Countless have been the cures worked by Holloway's Corn Cure. It has a power of its own not found in other preparations.

Women Help in Defence of City

Suffered Heavy Losses and Many Captured

London. — Polish Ruthenian troops have advanced and surrounded Lemberg, which is defended by the Poles, according to a Central News despatch from Copenhagen, quoting advice from Vienna. It is added that the Poles have been driven from Lubachow, northwest of Lemberg. In the advance on Lemberg, the Ruthenians attacked with 20,000 rifles on a front of 12 miles. All the Polish forces in Lemberg took part in the fighting, including a division made up of Polish women. This division, it is added, suffered severe losses and many of the women were captured.

Minard's Liniment Cures Distemper

See Light of Day Again

London Takes Out Art Treasures From Hiding Place

London. — More of London's art treasures are seeing the light of day after their long sojourn in places of safety where they were stored to save them from danger during air raids. This week the historic armor has been reinstated in the Tower of London, and the re-arrangement of the town armories which was held over owing to the war, is now complete. The windows of the houses of parliament, which were darkened with opaque substances are also being cleaned, and these beautiful stained glass works of art are coming to view.

These Pills Cure Rheumatism.—To the many who suffer from rheumatism a trial of Parmelee's Vegetable Pills is recommended. They have pronounced action upon the liver and kidneys and by regulating the action of these organs act as an alternative in preventing the admixture of uric acid and blood that causes this painful disorder. They must be taken according to directions and used steadily and they will speedily give evidence of their beneficial effects.

CONDITIONS ARE TERRIBLE

Doctors in German Camps Neglect Sick Prisoners

London. — The terrible conditions existing in the British prisoners' camp at Pashin, Mecklenburg, are described by Sifton Delmer, the Daily Mail's special correspondent in Berlin, who visited the camp. He says: "The prisoners' hourly waiting to go to Stettin for the voyage home are dying off rapidly from influenza. The German doctor leaves the camp at 6 o'clock every evening, and locks his medicine cupboard before he goes. The prisoners have a terrible Christmas, fighting influenza with their bare hands, so to say. On the day after Christmas the British were asked to furnish a burying party and found 17 men dead lying as they had been flung into the mortuary. All had been stripped, even to their shirts, and were unwashed, the sanitation servants having gone to Berlin for the holiday."

Famous Big Gun Abandoned

Coblenz. — Disembarked and with its war-torn parts already beginning to rust, the big Bertha which startled the world by its long range fire upon Paris in the early months of last year, has been left to its fate in an old German artillery yard in West Prussia.

According to information reaching the third army the famous big gun is lying in the open air, protected from the eyes of the curious only by a board fence. Other guns of large calibre are also within the yard, a few German soldiers acting as a guard.

NURSES ADVISE

Zam-Buk, because they have proved that it does what is claimed for it. Miss E. L. Dorey, graduate nurse, of 3220 Michigan Ave., Chicago, says: "I have a patient who suffered terribly with piles. Zam-Buk is the only remedy that gave her relief."

"I have used Zam-Buk myself for the same ailment, also for sores and burns, and have the greatest confidence in it."

Will Be Sold Out.

British Sloop of War Is Now at Esquimaux

Vancouver. — H. M. S. Algerine is to be sold out of the service as she lies at her mooring in Esquimaux harbor, according to announcement made by the naval authorities.

The vessel is of the type known as a sloop of war, similar to the Shearwater, and was built in England in 1895. She is 185 feet long, steel built and has twin screws. The Algerine came to British Columbia from the China station a few years ago and, with the Shearwater, patrolled south. When war broke out in Mexico and Shearwater were in Mexican waters and the German squadron made an effort to find the ships before they regained Esquimaux.

Subterfuge to Deceive Entente

Turks Claim They Were Opposed to Armenian Massacres

Washington. — Reports have been received from Constantinople to the effect that the Ottoman government has decided to create a general court martial for the trial of all functionaries responsible for the Armenian massacres, although most of them have fled the country with Enver Pasha and Djemal. The despatch says that Marshal Liman von Sanders, formerly head of the German military mission in Turkey and one of those primarily responsible for the massacres, was allowed to leave Constantinople freely.

The statement published to the effect that the Ottoman government proposes to form a court martial for the trial and punishment of the culprits responsible for the Armenian massacres is absolutely valueless. The old and young Turks are jointly and severally responsible for the horrors perpetrated upon the Armenians. Not a Turk lifted a finger to protest against the wholesale extermination of the last section of the law-abiding, innocent and progressive element of the Ottoman empire. Had the central powers won this war, the ring-leaders of the Armenian butcheries, including Enver and Talaat, would have been hailed by the Turkish populace as heroes.

The Turks are now endeavoring to ingratiate themselves with the entente powers, so as to gain better terms at the peace conference, and have sent emissaries to Europe in order to persuade the chancelleries of the allied powers that the Turks were pro-entente and opposed to the massacres. This is fundamentally false.

Newest Battleship to Be Surrendered

London. — Germany's newest battleship, the Baden, will be surrendered at a British port within a few days, in accordance with the terms of the armistice, according to announcement here.

Stuffy Head Cleared Of Catarrh Germs By "Catarrhazone"

To catarrh victims we have just one word of advice—cure it now. The remedy is "Catarrhazone." That it will cure permanently you cannot doubt. Catarrhazone has cured thousands; it will cure you, too.

It acts in two ways: First, it destroys the germ—that checks the progress of the disease. Its second action is to heal the sore places the germs caused. Nice to think of breathing little drops of healing to every part of the lungs, bronchial tubes and nasal passages. It is such absolute thoroughness that makes Catarrhazone so effective in grippe, catarrh, and colds. Then by its sedative influence upon the mucous surface it clears away the cough and throat tenderness very quickly. We owe something to a science that has given us Catarrhazone—that wonderful remedy which so surely enables us to permanently cure disease of the breathing apparatus. We all know that stomach dosing is useless, and this departure in the mode of treatment is an advance in medical science that everybody can appreciate and value. Complete outfit of Catarrhazone, which is guaranteed to cure any case of catarrh, asthma, bronchial or throat troubles, lasts three months, price $1.00; smaller size, 50c; trial size, 25c; sold everywhere.

Will Be Brought Home

Probable Dominion Will Pay Expenses of Soldiers' Dependents

Winnipeg. — A special despatch to the Free Press from its Ottawa correspondent reads: Not the least difficulty of the demobilization problems facing the government is that connected with soldiers' dependents overseas and the means whereby they are to be brought back to Canada.

It is not merely a question of transport; it is a question of finance. It does not only apply to wives and children who went over to Great Britain to be with their men in the days before travelling on the high seas for women was made almost impossible; it applies to the thousands of marital alliances contracted by soldiers in France and Great Britain.

The whole question is under advisement by the government, and it is highly probable that a decision will shortly be reached whereby the Dominion will pay the expenses of soldiers' dependents home. This will include the expense of sea and rail travel to their destination in Canada.

Says Serbs. Will Fight

Premier Says Italy Must Not Have Control of Adriatic

Paris. — "France, England and Russia, in their treaties with Italy and Roumania, disposed of Serbian rights," said Dr. M. R. Vesnich, premier of Serbia, in an interview given the Associated Press.

"Roumania lost her bargain when she began peace negotiations with the central powers in 1917," he continued. "Does the treaty of 1915 between Italy, France, England and Russia, regarding the eastern coast of the Adriatic still stand in international law?"

"There are two facts which would seem to negative this question. America entered the war after the signing of this treaty. She came in as the avowed enemy of secret treaties, and the entente accepted that principle. Further, at the time for the signing of this treaty, Italy wanted the territory in question as a protection against Slavish domination, backed by Russian power. But with the political upheaval in Russia, this situation has disappeared. The time is over, it seems to me, when an imperialist policy might be favored in Europe."

"Why should not the nations of the Balkans have the same rights as the others?"

In the first portion of the foregoing interview, Dr. Vesnich declared that if the treaty of 1915, by which Italy was to come into possession of the eastern coast of the Adriatic, should be confirmed by the peace conference, "then Serbia would fight again and fight to the finish." He added: "Serbia did not enter the war to become the vassal of any nation. She cannot agree to have Italy control the territory in question."

Few Fatal Accidents

Average in Aerial Navigation Surprisingly Small

London.—Some of the wonders achieved in aerial navigation, and other wonders contemplated were spoken of by Major Gen. H. F. Sykes, one of the air staff, in an address before the chamber of commerce.

General Sykes told how Paul D. Cravath and Oscar T. Crosby, American members of the inter-allied council, had been carried from England to Paris and back on the same day in four hours and twenty minutes.

It was asserted by General Sykes that in four months, between July and October, 207 trips were made across the English channel. The mileage traversed was 8,085 and 1,843 passengers were carried, although flying was possible on only 71 days. The fatal accidents were surprisingly few, said General Sykes, the average being only one fatality in 1,170 hours flown. Since January, 1916, 340 officers had lost their lives on the western front, nearly all their deaths being due to battles. The total of hours flown was close to a million.

Brussels. — On Belgian railways at the present time, there are more than 2,300 cars loaded with explosives, war material and merchandise of every kind left by the German.

Kaiser Plans Country House

Kaiserin Brought Furnishings to Holland, Including Kitchen Utensils

The Hague. — Belmonde, a country seat near Wageningen, is being prepared for the former imperial couple of Germany, but it is doubtful whether they will ever occupy it, since public opinion in Holland is being more and more aroused against sheltering the man who let loose the dogs of war. The ex-kaiser and kaiserin visited the house and planned alterations. The kaiserin brought some complete house furnishings to Holland, including all the kitchen utensils on the imperial train. Occasionally they go from Amerongen castle to Zuylenstein castle, where the former kaiser on medical advice saws wood in the forest.

There was no truth in the report that he attempted suicide. First, so I am told, he is "too religious," and secondly, he is too cowardly. If he took this house, Wilhelm II would be the second royal fugitive accorded asylum in Wageningen. In the 17th century, when Austria had conquered Bohemia, the king of Bohemia came to live there. The stone table at which he used to sit and look over the Rhine is still shown to tourists.

Will Help Rumania

Food and Wheat Commissions to Do Everything Possible

London. — Reuter's is informed that Col. Boyle, of the Canadian army, in charge of Rumanian relief, who has been working in Rumania and Russia since the spring of 1917, has just arrived in London from Bucharest. To him has been entrusted the task of dealing with inter-allied commissions and governments on questions of revictualing Rumania. He declares that the most urgent matter is the supply of food, as the population is starving or otherwise in very great distress.

Col. Boyle conferred with Mr. Hoover in Paris and the latter at once agreed to divert three cargoes of flour now on the Mediterranean to Rumania. He promised within two weeks to despatch two other cargoes, including fats and milk.

In London Col. Boyle conferred at the foreign office with Lord Reading and with the food and wheat commissions and met with a sympathetic hearing, all expressing the intention of doing everything possible.

Miller's Worm Powders act so thoroughly that stomachic and intestinal worms are literally ground up and pass from the child without being noticed and without inconvenience to the sufferer. They are painless and perfect in action, and at all times will be found a healthy medicine, strengthening the infantile stomach and maintaining it in vigorous operation, so that, besides being an effective vermifuge, they are tonical and health-giving in their effects.

NEW TREATMENT THAT KNOCKS RHEUMATISM

75c BOX FREE TO ANY SUFFERER

Up in Syracuse, N.Y., a treatment for rheumatism has been found that hundreds of users say is a wonder, reporting cures that seem little short of miraculous. Just a few treatments even in the very worst cases seem to accomplish wonders even after other remedies have failed entirely. It seems to neutralize the uric acid and lime salt deposits in the blood, driving all the poisonous elements waste from the system. Swelling, pain, stiffness, swelling, just seem to melt away and vanish.

The treatment first introduced by Mr. Delano is so good that its owner wants everybody that suffers from rheumatism or who has a friend so afflicted, to get a free 75c package from him to prove just what it will do in every case before a penny is spent. Mr. Delano says: "To prove that the Delano treatment overcomes rheumatism, no matter how severe, stubborn or long standing the case, and even after all other treatments have failed, I will, if you have never previously used the treatment, send you a full size 75c package 'as if you will just cut out this notice and send it with your name and address to me, to be sent by post and distribution expense to me personally.'"

Mr. H. Delano, 994 Wood Bldg., Syracuse, N.Y. I can send you one free package, and an order.

Note: Orders for Delano's Rheumatic Conqueror will be sent from the Canadian Laboratories without duty.

Mines Still a Menace

Paris. — Four sailors were killed in the Black sea Jan. 1, as a result of the French torpedo boat destroyer Ensigne Henry striking a mine. The destroyer was damaged by the explosion, but was able to reach Constantinople under her own power.

Ludendorff in Sweden. — The recent newspaper reports of the arrival in Sweden of General Ludendorff, the former virtual head of the German military system, are confirmed, by T. A. V. Schotte, the Swedish home minister. It is said that General Ludendorff is living on a farm at Passleholm, southern Sweden with a man named Edgar Olsson.

KEEP LITTLE ONES WELL IN WINTER

Winter is a dangerous season for the little ones. The days are so changeable—one bright, the next cold and stormy, that the mother is afraid to take the children out for the fresh air and they need so much. In consequence they are often cooped up in overheated, badly ventilated rooms and are soon seized with colds or grippes. What is needed to keep the little ones well is Baby's Own Tablets. They will regulate the stomach and bowels and drive out colds and by their use the baby will be able to get over the winter season in perfect safety. The Tablets are sold by medicinal dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

A Cure for Pimples

"You don't need mercury, potash or any other strong mineral to cure pimples caused by poor blood. Take Extract of Roots—druggist calls it 'Mother Seigel's Carative Syrup'—and your skin will clear up as fresh as a baby's. It will sweeten your stomach and regulate your bowels." Get the genuine. 50c. and $1.00 Bottles. At drug stores.
